

The Palace

The Set where approached to design and produce information packs, for use throughout the United Kingdom. The packs are primarily used to support the ladies in waiting when replying to enquiries from the public and schools on the many elements of royal life.

The packs which consist of a silver folder, were designed to be updateable, contain fact sheets, which outline many aspect of Palace life such as, The Queen's early life, The Queen's family, The crown jewels, Buckingham Palace, The Queen's working day, Royal Transport and Flags and heraldry.

The Palace

The Set were asked to produce printed information for schools to commemorate the Queens 80th birthday. A timeline was designed and produced which showed world events which ran alongside the queens own eventful life so as to give the viewer an indication of timeframes. All images were supplied by the Palace, all graphics and illustrations were produced by The Set.

The Set printed five thousand timelines which were over three meters long, and distributed by the Palace after advertising in the Times newspaper.
